

Intermountain Center for Disaster Preparedness

presents

Spring/Summer

Lunch and Learn Series

Ethics in Disaster What would you do?

Wed. June 17, 2015; 11:00 AM - 1:00 PM

Join Dr. Mark Shah, UEP, EM IHC UCR, UT-DMAT, and Medical Director for ICDP, Dr. Myung Lee, Hospitalist IMC and LDSH, and Deanne R Williams, MS, CNM, Adv. Practice Clinical Coord., as they discuss ethics during a disaster from both the bioethics and frontline perspective. Learn how you would respond if you were faced with similar circumstances. How would you make choices that effect you, your family, neighbors, co-workers, patients, and strangers?

How to Assist those with Hearing Impairments during a Crisis

Wed. August 19, 2015; 11:00 AM - 1:00 PM

Do you know how to communicate with someone who cannot hear you? How would you tell a child where to go in the event of a disaster if you could not communicate with your voice? Mitchel Moyers, Division of Services for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing, Outreach Coordinator, will discuss alternative methods of communication including simple sign language. He will present crucial considerations for assisting individuals with hearing difficulties before, during and after an emergency or disaster.

All classes will be held in the Intermountain Center for Disaster Preparedness located at
LDS Hospital, 3rd Flr North

All classes are free of charge.
Thanks in part to an ASPR Grant from the Utah Dept. of Health

A box lunch will be provided and

Please register at www.utah.train.org
You must register for individually
each class

Critical Incident Stress Management:

Course # 1056204

Ethics in Disaster

Course # 1056834

How to Assist those with Hearing Impairments during a Crisis

Course # 1056835